1. Start by drawing a small circle.

2. Now add a bigger circle just above and to the side of it.

3. Now draw two lines to connect these circles. The bottom line should have a bit of a curve to it.
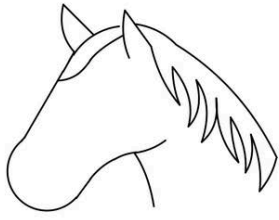

4. Add an ear on each side of the "head", just like this.
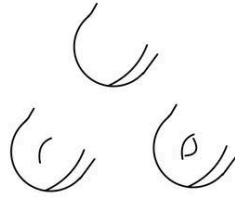

5. Add a line going down from the center of the larger circle, then one extending from the top of the larger circle. Now you have a neck.
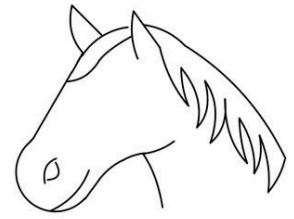

6. Now erase some parts of the circle so that you have an outline of the horse.
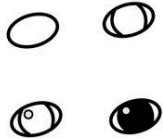

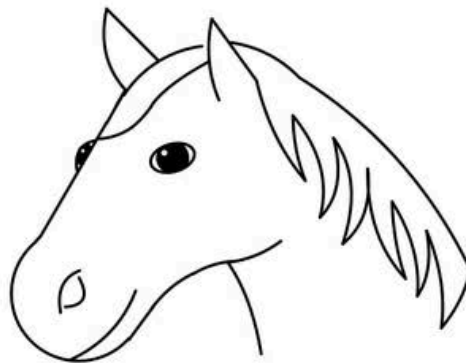

7. Now draw a mane and forelock, just like so.

8. Add a line above the chin to create a mouth. In the center of the muzzle, add one curved line on top and then a second one below it to create the nostril.

9. Here's what it should look like once it's finished.

10. Lastly, for the eye, start with a regular oval. Draw a curved line inside either end. Add a tiny circle in the top corner of your larger circle. Then, fill in the rest of the space you have created so only two slivers and the tiny circle remain white.

There you have it! Now you know how to draw a beautiful portrait of a horse.

Feel free to add extra details, and get creative!